Competitions: May 2010

Competitions are ordered by date of final registration -they are referenced by country of origin, but most are open to international entry.

new Italy: Open Design Italia

Deadline for participation is 13th July 2010.
From 19th to 21st November 2010 will take place in the Foro Boario of Modena the first edition of Open Design Italia, the event dedicated to self-production design and to limited series production. We are looking for talents. The cultural association La Pillola 400 notifies the release of the competition announcement for Open Design Italia, the event dedicated to the self-production design and the limited series production. The competition is open to designers, graphic designers, studios, groups, individual persons and creatives, who have made self-production and limited series production

new USA: d3 Natural Systems 2010: International Architectural Design Competition

Registration Deadline: July 5, 2010
The d3 Natural Systems Competition for 2010 invites architects, designers, engineers, and students to collectively explore the potential of analyzing, documenting, and deploying nature-based influences in architecture, interiors, and designed objects. The competition calls for innovative proposals that advance sustainable thought and performance through the study of intrinsic environmental geometries, behaviors, and flows. By identifying, examining, and applying their structural order on form and function- -bottom-up, performance-based solutions for limitless building typologies, functional programs, and material conditions may be realized. The competition allows designers freedom to approach their creative process in a scale-appropriate manner- -from large-scale master planning endeavors, to individual building concepts, to notions of interior detail. Accordingly, there are no restrictions on site, scale, program, or building typology.

UK: Architects For Health: Student Design Award 2010

Registration Deadline: 2nd July 2010
Architects for Health invite architectural students to submit projects to be considered for the third annual Student Healthcare Design Award 2010. As in previous years any project relating to the design of a healthcare building can be submitted, however the 2010 competition introduces a greater emphasis on the sample brief - Designing for Death: Hell, Purgatory and Paradise and a specific prize will be awarded for the most successful response to the sample brief.

new USA: Sukkah City: NYC

Register: 1st July 2010
Biblical in origin, the sukkah is an ephemeral, elemental shelter.
